

3 December 2015

The Renewables Infrastructure Group Limited (TRIG)

FTSE 250 Index Inclusion

The Renewables Infrastructure Group Limited (“TRIG”, “the Company”), the London-listed investment company advised by InfraRed Capital Partners as investment manager and Renewable Energy Systems as operations manager, is pleased to confirm that, following yesterday’s announcement by FTSE concerning the quarterly changes to the FTSE UK Index Series, TRIG will enter the FTSE 250 index on 21 December, as well as the FTSE 350 and FTSE 350 High Yield indices.

TRIG listed in July 2013 with an initial market capitalisation of £300 million and a portfolio of onshore wind farms and solar PV parks located in the UK, France and Ireland with total generating capacity of 276MW. Since then, accompanying a progressive expansion of the portfolio to 658MW of capacity, TRIG has raised a further £430 million in equity, of which £316 million has been raised in the year to date. The Company has a target interim dividend for the six months ending 31 December 2015 of 3.11 pence per ordinary share.

Helen Mahy, Chairman of TRIG said:

“Against the backdrop of world leaders meeting in Paris this week for the 2015 United Nations Climate Change Conference, it is fitting that TRIG, as a leading renewables infrastructure fund, enters the FTSE 250 index. Despite recent UK energy policy changes, renewable energy remains an important part of a clean and sustainable energy mix. TRIG offers an attractive route to investment in this sector, with a diversified portfolio of operating, yielding projects across several technologies and markets. We would like to mark this milestone by thanking our shareholders for their support since our IPO in July 2013.”